Sometimes when we have grown weary
In the paths your feet have tread,
And we sit down lonely, dreary,
Thinking, longing for the dead, You will come in the twilight round us, You will whisper words of cheer, While the world drifts on without you; From you we'll be glad to hear.

We are lonely; oh, how weary.
Yet we know you are not dead—
Only sleeping, sweetly sleeping.

NINETERNTH CENTURY GODS

Novelty Is the One Principally Worshiped by Society.

Mrs. Cleveland and the Cabinet Ladies May Go to Baltimore-Fashionables' Favorite Dissipation.

Gold and Novelty are the gods of the nine teenth century, and it is this same novelty that Mr. Nordau catis by such a hard name as decadence. Take anything, no matter it is novel, it will gain at once a blazing success. On my way down town very early the other morning I met a society young woman, with red cheeks, shining eyes and en thusiasm in every movement. "Where ar you bound," said I, "this time of day? There are surely no social functions that deman your attention." "I am going," she said, 'to read to a crippled old woman on B street." "A new fad?" I asked. "At first, yes," she admitted, "it was a tad, but I am so interested now that I am sure I could nevergive it up. You cannot understand the feeling, what it is to be really necessary to somebody's happiness, and in making my engagements for this winter I am saving a place for my interesting old cripple, who dotes on the 'Duchess,' by the way, and I am making no eifort to improve her literary taste."

In going by Mrs. Dahigren's house the other day I saw her sitting by the window, looking just as she has looked these last ten years, and with no signs of increasing age upon lher. She attributes her excelent physical health to the months she mends at her country places. I South Mannier. spends at her country place at South Mount-ain, where she can live out of doors and where she is surrounded by children and grandchildren. Mrs. Dahlgren also keeps up her literary work, and, though she goes out but litle in these later years, has a constant interest in what goeson in the social

The favorite dissipation among the fashionables just at present is a rice out to Cabai John, a buncheon there on the deheacies found in that vicinity, fried deheactes found in that vicinity, fried chicken, an hour or so spent in walking on the country roads, or in climbing the picturesque hillsides, and a ride back again in time for a cosy cup of tea before the party separates for dinner. Mrs. Matthews chaperqued such a party recently and Mrs. Hitchcock another, of which Miss McBrackets are the leading south. McPherson was the leading spirit. To many of those invited it years a new experi-ence, and excited no little enthusiasm.

Some one asked me the other day who was the best dressed man in town, and feer thinking five minutes, I could not fer imaging five minutes, I count in fell, neither can I say who is the best diressed woman. The fact of the case is that every one dresses so well in Washington it would be hard to make a choice. They dress well and with individuality, totally unlike the ultra fashion affected by New Yorkers, who look like plates clipped from some society journal.

It is expected that Mrs. Cleveland, who holds in pleasant remembrance the last charity ball in Baitimore, will grace the next affair to be given by the benevolent next affair to be given by me constraint women interested in it December 19. Many of the ladies of the Cabinet will, it is anticipated, also take part, and many other distinguished visitors from Washington, Philadelphia, and Richmond will be pres-Philadelphia, and Rodmonn was be been. The Elkridge and Green Spring Val-iey Hunt Clubs and the staff of the Fourth and Fifth Regiments will appear in antiorm and a mimber of army and naval officers from Annapolis and elsewhere will participate. The function will occur in the Music Hall, and is for the support of the Hospital for the Women of Maryland.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Curry have issued invitations for a dinner Thursday Novem-ber 21.

Capt George Jaeger entertained a stag party last night at his residence on Twelfth street northwest. Among the guests present were Messrs. William Polway, C. Wright, Royce Hough, M Harris, William Chapman, Charles Mil-ler, Howard Graham and Beall.

The Davis-Murray wedding will be the nuptial event of this evening. The cere-mony, which will take place at Mount Vernon Place M. E. Church South at 8 o'clock, will be performed by Dr. Canter, pastor of performed by Dr. Canter, pastor the church.

Miss Marie Latimer will attend her cousin as until of honor, and Mr. W. S. Stamper, of the Agricultural Department, will serve thegroom as best man. Little Miss Brownie Latimer and her brother, Master Edwin M. N. Latimer, will act as flower bearer

The ushers will be Harry A. Latimer, Mr. James S. McCarthy, Mr. Frank Latimer and Mr. Perry P. Patrick. There will be a short reception after the ceremony in the parlor of the church. A supper will be given at the home of the bridal party, after which Mr. and Mrs. Marray will leave on the 10:43 train for the Atlanta Exposition and other points of interest in the South.

Miss Anna Beatrice Mullin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Mullin, of Tenleytown, will be married this evening to Mr. William Seidenberg, of this city.

The Short Story Club will hold a meeting this evening at the Wimodaughsis, I street northwest.

Mrs. Parker will give a huncheon today at her residence at Soldiers' Home in honor of Mrs. Miles.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Anderson have re-turned from Atlanta and will spend the winter at their country home on the Bla-densburg road.

The Business Woman's Mart, a lean exinibition of curios and relics and a sale of feminine handtwork, will open this evening at 7:20, at the rooms of the Business
Woman's Club, No. 606 Eleventh street northwest. This promises to be an affair of unusual interest, owing to the number of relics of the late war that it will include.
Among these are the lieg from the ship of

The sale and display will continue through next Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Shelton gave a party last night in honor of the seventh birthday of their daughter Lucy at their residence, on M street northwest. One of the prettiest features of the evening's pleasure was the fancy dancing of Miss Blanche Wise.

Among those present were the Misses Sadie and Ora Robertson, Miss Ora Wise, the Misses Grace and Marie Storch, Miss Ella Hospital, Miss Ada Morgal, the Misses Nellie and Lola Shelton, Miss Helen Shanks, Miss Minnie Graves, and Masters Archer, Graves, Morgan, Chrence Shelton, and Mr. Mockbee.

Miss Beatrice Louise Weicker, daughter of Mrs. A. E. Weicker, of No. 1625 Fourteenth street northwest, was united in marriage last nigut at 7.30 o'clock to Mr. Frank V. Killian, of this city. The cere-mony was performed by kev. Dr. Dorner, at St. Paul's English Lutheran Church, which was artistically decorated with palms.

The bride entered the church with her mother, who gave her away. They were preceded by four ushers, Mr. Paul Welcker, brother of the bride; Mr. Gus Voigt, Mr. Ralph Flack, Mr. Robert Snibbe, of Baltimore, and by the groom and his best man, Mr. William Georges, of this city. There were no bridesmains, the bride being attended by her cousin, Miss Lillie Koether, who directly preceded her to the chancel.

There were no bridesmalds, the bride being attended by her cousin, hiss Lillie Koehler, who directly preceded her to the chancel. The bride was robed exquisitely in a train of white taffeta silk trimmed with chiffon. Her tulle veil was caught with orange blossoms, and over her forehead gleamed a diamond crescent, the gift of a valued friend. Her slippers were cream satin and she carried a cluster of bride roses, held with satin bows. Her cat and neck jewels were diamonds, a present from the groom.

Mrs. Wetcker's costume was of ashes of rose silk, trimmed with pansy velvet. She wore a necklace and other ornaments of diamonds, but carried no bouquet. Miss Koehler, the pretty maid of honor, was gowned daimily in pate blue silk of Dresden pattern, decorated with blue and sliver gauze. The flowers were La France roses, tied with blue satin bows.

The maptial march was played by Miss Thomas, the organist of 8t. Paul's.

The eccemony was followed by a reception from 8 to 10, after which Mr. and Mrs. Millian left for Atlanta and Florida, to be absent until December 1.

The gavel is hand/somely trimmed in wide,

The gavel is handsonedy trimmed in wide, gold bands. One extra large gold plate adorns the handle and head. On these plates is engraved the following inscription: "Presented to the Southern Surgical and Graco-logical Association by H. Marion-Sins, M. D., November, 1895." On the head plate is inscribed: "This gavel is made from leg of operating table used by Dr. J. Marion-Sins in his office for twelve years preced-ing his death."

ing his death."

Dr. Tiffany, the president, arose and said, after reading the letter which accompanied the gift:

"To honor the receipt of this beautiful gavel, and to reverence the memory of the great doctor who died twelve years ago, I hereby request Dr. Kollock, of South Carolina, who was an intimate friend and collaborer of the deceased, to use it first."

With this Dr. Kollock stepped forward, and with its first rup called the association to order, followed with a reminiscent speech.

Motion to officially thank the giver was unanimously adopted.

Several of the members, among them the re-elected secretary, left at 3 o'clock for their homes.

AMONG THE UNIVERSITIES

Suggestion Relative to the Conduct of the Public Lecture Courses.

Inauguration of President Whitman to Occur Tomorrow - Bishop Keane Back From Rhode Island.

The public lecture courses in the various iversities continue to grow in popular favor. Last Thursday over 600 people listened to Dr. Egan's discourse on Shakespeare, and every Tuesday the fecture hall at the Columbian is crowded with advocates of the great economic questions under these talks are not intended solely for and systematic intellectual life among all classes, would not the university of-ficials do a wise thing to conduct them on a more didactic basis?

The ultimate aim of the lecturer is to promote a wider interest in learning and to enable a larger number of people to avail temseives of the advantages of university study. To obtain this end he should have an audience that not only listens attentively to what he says, but by the preparation of a thesis shows an intempent comprehension of his views. This system of cuncation was tried most successfully at the Cooper Institute in New York and in the Lowell Institute in Los-tific School of the Columbian University is conducted very much on this principa and it has proved womerfully successful.

The Catholic University has adopted this course in the school of social sciences, par-ticularly in regard to Hon. Carroll D. Wright's fectures. It would be a step in the right direction if the popular at-erary discourses were placed on the same basis.

Mr. Egan, for instance, is the ideal lec-turer for intellectual improvement and culture. He is a thoroughly equipped college man, and while a profound scholar and a pleasant talker, he is first and most of all a good teacher. It seems like a waste of line material to talk just for the passing hour, when so much genuine progress in knowledge might be the result.

COLUMBIAN UNIVERSITY. At the meeting of the Corcoran Scientific School a few evenings ago a ciass organiofficers. President, Mr. Skinner; vice president, Miss Cameron; secretary-freasurer, Mr. Reisner. Three committees were aplathe, which is to be voted for, and a third composed of the above-named officers, who will wait upon the president of the college and tend to him the good wishes and support of the Corcoran Scientific School.

A vote of thanks was tendered to Prof. A vote of manks was tendered to Prot.
Munroe for his hearty co-operation and support in the organization of the society.
The first issue of the university paper will appear tomorrow. The Corcoran Scientific School is ably represented in having as editor Mr. L. V. Mason, who is quite experienced in such work.

The fecture of Dr. William T. Harris,
United States Commissioner of Education, on the statistical data requisite for the solution of existing economic questions, de-livered in the scientific course, was unusually well attended, and has excited an amount of favorable comment. Dr. Harris spoke in place of Prof. J. M. Gregory, who was unexpectedly called to Illinois. On November 26 Prof. Lester F. Ward, of the National Museum, will deliver a lecture on the ethical aspect of social science.

The Ensemble Society is glad to welcome its president, Mr. Harry Domaily, who returned to the university a few days ago after a long and serious siege of typhoid fever. The officers of the society who were lately elected are, Miss Helen Biddis. well attended, and has excited an amount the society will debate whether war is not opposed to the tenets of Christianity.

The students of the scientific school last evening passed unanimous expressions of serrow concerning the death of their class-nute, Martin J. Nelan, who died a few days ago. He was a cierk in the Interior Department, and was an unusually bright young man. His death is deeply deplored by a large circle of friends.

The chemical experiments at the Cosmos Clab this evening will attract a large circle of scientists. Prof. Munroe will pre-side at the exhibition of argon and helium, and Mr. Brown will be in charge of the electrical stereopticon.

CATHOLIC UNIVERSITY. The second lecture of Dr. Maurice Francis. Egan occurs at 4:30 this afternoon. Dr.

Egan's subject will be Shakespeare and the modern novel. He will dwell on the famous playwright's delineation of character and taking for an argument that the novel being the exponent of modern thought, Shakespeare, had he lived in the nineteenth century, would have been a novelist, Mr.
Egan will tear some of our favorite up-todate novels in fine pieces, and, on the whole, the novel, as late productions show it, will receive rather rough handling.

In the course of cthics Dr. Rooker has oncluded his lectures on habits, and to-day goes more deeply into his subject by taking up the study of man and his pas-sions. Dr. Rooker will follow the great doctrines of St. Thomas of Acquin, and at first treat his subject from a purely the-logical standpoint, gradually descending to natural impolses and predispositions of man.

The rector, Eishop Keane, who has been visiting in Providence, R. L., returned to the university a few days ago. Rev. J. A. Zahm, who was expected at the College of the Holy Cross on the 12th lustant, has been obliged, on account of his scientific literary labors, to defer his visit until December 1 Dr. Edward Greene has aimost completed the arrangement of his herbarium, and is now cataloguing its contents. WILKINS & COMPANY, Manufacturers' Wholesale Distributing Agents. will deliver a lecture on "The Four Great Masters and Thier Work." This lecture refers to the writings of the Evangelists, in the New Testament. As Dr. Shahan is professor of early ecclesiastical history, be a enumently adapted to discourse on this authority.

GEORGETOWN UNIVERSITY The next event of interest to the George-town students is the entertainment to be given on Thanksgiving evening. The boys hoped to have "Henry IV" sufficiently rehearsed for public exhibition, but owing to the interruptions of field day, they have abandoned this plan and will give recita-tions and debates. The glee club will be on hand with a choice programme, and the minstrels will have a parody on "Trilby." The entertainment is only for the faculty and students, no invitations being extended out of the college. The Philodemic Debating Society, through its president, Mr. McDermott, is completing negotiations for a series of public debates with the Philodemic, of Boston College. A corps of chosen speakers from Eos-ton will visit Georgetown about February 1, and the affair will be a lively skirmish

In the post-graduate class Dr. Welsh is conducting a course of history in connection with the lectures of Hon. Martin F. Morris, on constitutional liberty. The philosophers have just completed applied logic, major logic and miner logic, and on Monday next the class will have to stand a public examination in Gunten Hall and prepare themselves on these branches. The next study they pursue will be metaphysics. IN THE LAW SCHOOLS. The legal departments of the different universities report remarkable progress, both in attendance and the amount of labor thus far accomplished. The Columbian has adopted several special courses, and these classes are crowded, particularly those in patent law. The Columbian has a very brilliant list of professors, including Jus-tices Harian and Brewer and Judge Cox, the dear. the largest in point of attendance, and un-der the direction of Mr. John J. Darling ton keeps up its record for thorough train-ing and unequated advantages. The National is a favorite alma mater, and this season has the largest class of its career. Howard University is conducting a free law school, and the advantages of a free law school, and the advantages of legal studies are being eagerly sought. There are in Washington over 500 young men and in the National and Howard about eighteen women who are endeavoring to perfect themselves in legal lore.

Fourth Presbyterian Endeavorers. The regular monthly business meeting of the Young People's Society of the Fourth Presbyterian Church was held last even-ing at the residence of Miss Mary E. Hoover, No. 1118 Ninth street. This was the first meeting conducted by the new corps of of-ficers, but everything worked as smoothly as if they had been everynsed with the mem-business had been dispensed with the memas if they had been veterans. After the business had been dispensed with the members and their friends retired to the dining roam, where refreshments were served, after which the following participated in a very brief and exceedingly well rendered programme. Mrs. C. J. Williamson, Miss Athalia Tingling, Miss Minnie Babcock, Miss Mary E. Hoover and Mr. Charles Wright.
